Sell Goodyear Tires

Did You Get the Bottom Price, After All?

The man who buys a "long discount" tire usually finds himself troubled by the above question.

Did he pay less for the tire than his neighbor might have paid, or actually did he pay more?

Did he get the bottom price, when all is said and done, or could he perhaps have driven a sharper bargain? Was the net price really more than he might have had to pay for a tire of established reputation and value? In the belief that the average motorist prefers a frank and open transaction, we built the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord and discounted the "discount" in advance. Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can. We build it of high-grade long-staple cotton, using the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction, and sell it at a lower price than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown worth.

If you want a quality tire, and a reliable value, call today on any of the Goodyear Service Station Dealers listed here.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

FLETCHERIZED FARM FACTS

By THE EDITOR

The wheat and oat harvest is over for the most part in Texas. The yield of these grains was light this year, due to adverse weather conditions during the growing period. The price secured has been fair, but the inevitable slump followed the first rush to market, and the man who was caught in this slump and forced to sell suffered losses. Those growers who, owing to their geographic location at the extreme southern end of the grain belt, were enabled to get to market in advance of the heavy marketing that came with the height of the harvest season pocketed a handsome difference in the price. The supply of grain being below what it would be under normal yields, it is reasonable to assume that the man who can house his grain and keep it in good condition will be rewarded by substantial advances later on. This, of course, presumes that he is prepared to house and able to hold until there is a reaction in the price.

Too much rain during the growing season for sandy land made the corn crop light on most sandy land farms. But what was the undoing of the sandy land was the making of the heavier soils and on the whole Texas has a fine corn crop-the fourth one in succession. Large shipments of old corn are now going to market, and ing to avoid knocking the bottom out of the pre when the harvest gets well under way.

And speaking of the corn crop, the ears from the roughage and chops that up into stover, thus converting the entire stalk into valuable feed and saving practically all of the plant. In the South this is usually left in the fields, sometimes to be pastured but more often to decay, Business wants it. waste and later be burned to clear the land for future crops.

Of course, when one begins to talk about saving corn fodder he is at once met with the argument that one loses more in grain than he saves in forage when he saves the fodder. If there have been any experiments of sufficient conclusiveness to prove or disprove this theory our somewhat omniverous perusal of agricultural literature has not yet reached the fact; and we are, therefore, neither going to aver nor deny. This much can be said with assurance, however. No one has ever "felt" any serious loss of grain from saving the fodder; people have been put to serious inconvenience from a shortage of roughage. And the waste of it in Southern corn fields reaches an enormous sum total every year.

Big Business wants this country to rebate to the Allies what they owe this country; for the reason that it would make it easier for Big Business to collect the billions they loaned of a community are organized into to the Allies.

Now, if the International bankers will rebate to the Allies the billions they have loaned to the Allies, I am willing to rebate to the Allies my part of what the Allies owe the American government.

Every once in a while some joskins, unequipped for sober thinking. fatuously fulminates to this effect: "No matter who is elected, the country runs along about the same." It not only makes a difference, but a dollars and cents difference.

For instance, compare the state patch of select seed corn on his farm tax rate under the Tom Campbell adevery year. But if you have not prac- ministration, with what it has come ticed this heretofore it is not too late to be. Of course, if we were getting a four or five times better government, it would not be so bad.

No end of good must come from country into agricultural clubs. It is one of the few encouraging signs of the times, and should be encouraged in every way.

When the country boys and girls an agricultural society, they should not only discuss the growing and selling of farm products; but as well, questions relating to their governments and their homes.

And here is a good question for a country debate: "Which is the greater evil; which does the most harm; the bale-weevil or the boll-weevil, to the farmer and his farm?" In other words, my dear kids, where is the biggest loss; in the field or the market?

And while the boys and girls are trying to find out what to do about the boll weevil, I hope they will try something as effective as calcium arsenate on the bale-weevil. Co-operative politics will get him, if judiciously applied.

I like to believe that latterly there is more tendency among people who work or do honest business for a living-in other words, who w of the day and sleep most of the night-to find out who are their honest to God friends, and elect them

Big Business has a better scheme than we have, if not so honest, When Big Business, which schemes through a, few short hours of the day, and chases 'round most of the night, gets a man in office who doesn't play the game to suit Big Business, do you know what happens?

When Big Business buys a politician into office who declines to saddle the common herd for Big Business to Effective July 20th, Goodrich establishes a revised price list that is a base line of tire value. It gives the motorist the buying advantage of knowing that whatever size tire he selects is of the same quality - the Goodrich one-quality standard. It gives him the longest mileage, the most satisfactory service and the highest quality his money can buy. Results will prove that it is impossible to buy tire mileage at lower cost.
